Epoch-making Tribal Leadership Meeting to Discuss the Green Energy Transition, Threat of New Mining Proposals and Protecting Traditional Homelands Together

By Bethany Sam, RSIC Public Relations Officer

Tribal Leaders stand in solidarity to protect traditional homelands & invite to the Biden Administration and Deb Haaland to meet with Nevada Tribes about green energy, proposed mining, & sacred sites. Photo by: Little Buck Harjo (Reno, NV) - Over 30 Tribal Leaders with representation of 17 Tribes from Nevada, California, Oregon and North Dakota attended an invite only Tribal Leadership Meeting. Hosted by RSIC on March 8, 2023 the tribes discussed protecting traditional homelands against the green rush.

With the rush for lithium around the world for electric batteries and knowing the largest deposits the U.S. have been found in Nevada, California, Oregon, South Dakota, North Dakota, etc... all of our traditional lands are at stake. In Nevada alone, there are 74 proposed mines and over 18,000 lithium claims. 85% of these proposed mines and claims are less than 30 miles from a reservation.

This Tribal Leadership Meeting was held to collaborate and unite as tribes in support to protect sacred sites, our culture, our tribal communities, and our future from the extractive mining industry and the green energy transition.

The Reno-Sparks Indian Colony asked each tribe to support Saving Thacker Pass by resolution. These resolutions are one way that our relative tribes can support efforts against destructive lithium mining. The RSIC, Summit Lake Paiute Tribe and Burns Paiute Tribe are the current litigants against the Department of Interior Bureau of Land Management and Lithium Nevada Corporation.

Since taking office, the Biden Administration has prioritized expanding clean energy technologies as part of his historic efforts to tackle the climate crisis—all while helping American families lower their energy costs and creating good-paying, union jobs. Distributed Energy Resources (DERs)- like rooftop solar, batter storage, heat pumps, and electric vehicles—will cut consumer costs, improve public health, strengthen U.S. energy security, and help meet the Presidents goal to reduce emission 50-52% below 2005 levels in 2030. Recent analysis shows that the average American family can save an additional $500 a year from using clean electricity like solar and heat pumps to power their homes. The President's National Climate Task Force formed a DERs Working Group to advance these clean energy technologies and ensure these cost-saving opportunities are available to all Americans.

But what the world is NOT being told, is that to make this green energy transition we will need to increase mining and destroy Mother Earth a bit more. In order to make an electric battery, it needs 4-5 minerals or 4-5 mines to produce 1 electric car battery. It seems we are trading one problem for another to fast track a solution to climate change. However, this solution is not long term.

At this point in time, scientists are still unsure if the electric grid can support the electric future. It takes 2 hours to charge the battery to go a little over 200 miles and there are not enough charging stations to support millions of drivers. Not to mention, electric car batteries weigh 1/3 more than a gas powered vehicle and will increase the death rate a 1/3 more, electric car batteries can not be recycled, and emergency services does not have the technology to extinguish an electric battery fire. The only benefit to an electric powered vehicle is that the emissions are contained and not going into the air.

"The biggest issue is to protect our land. The primary issues are to protect our Earth, our sacred sites, to protect where our ancestors are buried, to protect where our water sources are, to protect our children, that 's primary to us. Tribes getting paid off is secondary to everything else. Even though we are a ways from Thacker Pass, we felt our expertise and knowledge in the dry oil mining could be helpful. Through our work, we've realized we are all connected as Paiute, Shoshone, Washoe people. Our ancestors visited one another regularly. It's colonization separating us. And if you think about it, what do we have to lose? Nothing really. The U.S. expects us to use our sovereignty and that means we have to exercise our sovereignty. Our children and our ancestors want us to be the very best we can and fight this battle. Our future depends on it." - Arlan D. Melendez, Chairman

Tribal Leadership Meeting
Protecting Our Traditional Homelands
and Communities

MARCH 8, 2023

Society has been greenwashed. Greenwashing is the process of conveying a false impression or misleading information about how a company's products are environmentally sound. Greenwashing involves making an unsubstantiated claim to deceive consumers into believing that a company's products are environmentally friendly or have a greater positive environmental impact than they actually do.

The real solution is to scale down on our conveniences & water usage, re-evaluate our morals & values, and use ancient indigenous teachings to heal our communities & save Mother Earth for our children and future generations.

In the case of PeeHee Mu'Huh or Thacker Pass, the legal team has uncovered many injustices. Such as:

- ✦ How the government actually consults with tribes. BLM mails a simple letter with little information, that a tribe can barely understand with a limited timeframe to reply. If BLM receives no response letter from the tribe, they consider it consultation. This is not consultation. Especially, during a pandemic while tribal offices were closed.

- ✦ BLM makes the decision who they will consult with.
- ✦ Non-native archeologists write our history.
- ✦ Federal Judges do not have to take a tribal government / tribal law course to graduate Law School. How many Federal Judges make decisions about a Tribe's future and does not have any tribal law background?
- ✦ If BLM knew about the massacre, why didn't they include in their original reports? How many permits have been issued without the proper history of the land?
- ✦ Mining Law of 1872 was created to remove Native Americans from their homelands in order for the United States to profit. The law has never been changed or amended from 1872.

- ✦ The true story of all U.S. massacres and the erasure of how tribes interacted before reservations and assimilation. We are all related and our ancestors migrated to visit one another regularly.
- ✦ Mining for the green energy transition will affect all indigenous communities. It will affect all Nevada Tribes and with the production plans to be processed in Washoe County and nearby areas, Reno-Sparks Indian Colony is already being affected.

The Reno-Sparks Indian Colony hosted the epoch-making Tribal Leadership Meeting to plan for the destruction of our homelands. The Reno-Sparks Indian Colony is grateful to each tribe for attending.

HERE IS A GOOD REMINDER LIST FOR OUTSIDE CLEANUP

(Reno, NV) - This winter has been one of the worst in years – and in some areas of the country, even decades. That severe weather, including snow and ice, has wreaked havoc in many parts of the United States. All of this winter weather could mean damage to your yard. Here are some tips to clean up your yard and prevent winter yard damage:

Clean up rock salt and other deicing products

Using rock salt, ice melt, and other liquid or solid products to deice the sidewalk or the street may be important in the winter to keep you from falling or sliding around on the roads. But some of the products can potentially cause damage to your greenery. When the snow starts to melt, make sure that you clear off the deicing materials off your lawn, shrubs and trees to potentially protect against any winter yard damage. Apply gypsum to the areas of the lawn where road salt or salt from the driveway or sidewalks may have made contact.

Prune trees and shrubs

You many have put burlap around your trees or shrubs to protect them from the worst of the winter. If so, now is a great time to remove the burlap. However, winter storms may have done damage to the shrubs or trees in your yard. Make sure that you clean up your yard by pruning any branches damaged by the winter, so that new growth can take its place.

Remove dead materials and litter

One of the pitfalls from winter is that many things may blow onto your lawn that do not need to be there. Once the snow melts, you may see that litter has made it onto your lawn. Obviously, you need to clean it up. Other things you will need to remove include things like leaves, pine cones, fallen tree branches, and dog waste that may have ended up on your lawn.

Trim back perennials and remove annuals

Cut back the dead leaves and branches on your perennials to ensure future growth. In addition, if you have some annuals that you did not remove in the fall, now would be a good time to do so. Many of this plant material could end up in your composting bin.

Control weeds

If you did not get rid of any existing weeds at the end of fall, apply weed controls when temperatures are 50 degrees or higher.. Do not put the weeds, though, in the compost pile, as they could sprout and overwhelm your yard.

Treat snow mold

You may have an unpleasant surprise after winter – snow mold. This is common in areas with significant snow-fall. Areas that have been matted down by the snow mold, use a leaf rake to remove the dead leaves and allow the lawn to recover.

Fertilize for spring

Now is a good time to start on spring fertilizing to get your yard ready for summer enjoyment. Use a fertilizer which includes crabgrass preventer. Follow label directions to avoid over fertilization.

Created to the Lawn Doctor.

Looking for Stewart Indian School Alumni from the 1950s and early 1960s

(Carson City, NV) - Professor Marisella Martinez-Cola (Morehouse College, Atlanta, GA) would like to interview Stewart alumni who recall former employee Alice Piper from Big Pine, CA. Ms. Piper was a matron and Instructional Aide to older boys living in the Large Boys Dorm. Ms. Piper worked at Stewart Indian School as a matron in 1944-1950. She worked with students in the Special Five-Year Navajo Program during some of this time. Ms. Piper was re-employed as an Instructional Aide for large boys in the late 1950s through early 1960s. She is pictured in Stewart Yearbooks for 1961 and mentioned in 1962.

Alice Piper went by Alice Antelope during her earlier employment. She took her maiden name back after a divorce.

The late Ms. Piper (1908-1985) is known for winning a discrimination case (Piper v. Big Pine School District of Inyo County) in 1924. This victory allowed Indian students to attend the newly built public school in Big Pine and had even broader implications. This case law was cited in a landmark discrimination case decided in the U.S. Supreme Court, "Brown v.

Board of Education of Topeka" in the 1950s.

Information gathered in Professor Martinez-Cola's project, "Finding Alice Piper" will be shared with the Eastern California Museum in Inyo County, CA. and the Big Pine Paiute Tribe (contact: Mr. Dave Rambeau) who also are also honoring Ms. Piper.

Informational Goals

Ms. Piper is mentioned in Professor Martinez-Cola's book: The Bricks Before Brown V. Board: A Comparative Historical Case Study of Race, Class, and Gender across Chinese American, Native American, and Mexican American School Desegregation Cases, 1885-1947 (2022). She is interested in knowing more about Alice Piper on a personal level and is interested in identifying Stewart alumni or staff who have first-hand recollections of the former employee.

Due to the distance between Georgia and Nevada, Professor Martinez-Cola asked the staff of Stewart Indian School Cultural Center and Museum for assistance. Stewart research volunteer Ms. Renee Kolvet was asked to help. We sincerely appreciate your willingness to assist us in locating former alumni who are willing to contribute to this project.

For further information, Professor Martinez-Cola can be reached at 470-639-0477 or marisella.col@morehouse.edu and Ms. Kolvet can be reached at 702-286-8516 or rforona2013@gmail.com

Any information is greatly appreciated.

Great Basin Indigenous Women Rising hosted Powwow & Organized Jingle Dress Dancers for the Women's March to raise awareness for Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women, Girls, and Two Spirit people

Northern Nevada's Indigenous leadership coordinates events for healing and reinforcing community networks of support and resistance.

Reno, NV — Great Basin Indigenous Women Rising is a coalition of Indigenous women leaders who assembled in 2017 to advocate for the protection of their communities. Their organizing efforts promote land, water, and community protection.

The 2nd Annual Red Dress Powwow offered a social space for local Indigenous communities, families, and their guests to gather. As a more intimate gathering, it gave those most affected by Missing and Murdered Indigenous Peoples (MMIP) an opportunity for healing and to strengthen foundations of collective resiliency.

The Women's March also helped raise awareness to MMIP by inviting the Jingle Dress Dancers to lead the march. Hundreds of Indigenous participants lined the streets to pray and honor those who have been murdered or missing from their communities.

These events provided an opportunity for folks to network, donate to families affected by MMIP, and build capacity to resist current and future manifestations of settler-colonial violence like instances of Missing and Murdered Indigenous Peoples exacerbated by the mining industry in Nevada and lack of federal police officers & investigators assigned to Indian Country.

To Reno-Sparks Indian Colony residents:

The Reno-Sparks Indian Colony ("RSIC") Tribal Council is concerned about the growing number of unauthorized structures on the Colony that people are using as dwelling units on land assignments or leases.

We believe these unauthorized structures pose a serious danger to permanent Colony residents for several reasons. It's obvious that people are using stoves and other methods to heat the structures thus creating a fire hazard for homeowners and authorized tenants in rental units. .

These unauthorized structures violate several RSIC ordinances including Ordinance 51 the Land Assignment Ordinance, that authorizes only a land assignment or lease holder to have a primary residence on their land assignment or lease. In addition, many of these structures appear hazardous and unsafe for Colony residents, a violation of Ordinance 46, the Solid Waste Ordinance that was adopted to protect the health and safety of the members of the Reno-Sparks Indian and prohibits the storing, disposing, dumping, scattering, placing solid waste or hazardous waste on Colony lands.

If an unauthorized structure where people are living is located on your land assignment or lease, expect to receive personal notification that these structures must be removed as soon as possible.

At this time, this mandate does not include sheds but only unauthorized structures where people are living. If these unauthorized structures are not removed by the homeowner, the RSIC will take further action to remove them.

Sincerely,

Arlan D. Melendez
