Pyramid Lake Girls Take the Nevada State Basketball Championship back to Nixon after 42 Years!

For the first time in over four decades, the girls from Pyramid Lake are taking the Nevada State Basketball Championship back to Nixon.

The Lakers' season wrapped up with a 59-23 demolishing of Eureka Saturday in the 1A title game from Lawlor Events Center. Ending with a record of 23-3 overall with an 88% win ratio and a record of 7-0 in 1A Western league.

It's Pyramid Lake's first state title since 1981. Uniquely, some of those championship players were in the stands cheering on their children and grandchildren on the current team.

Coach Ray Charles said most of the team plays basketball year-round and that leads to their success.

He said in addition to having last season's state final loss in the back of their minds, the Lakers were playing for some community members who recently died.

"We've had a lot of heartache, even in this past week. We've had a lot of..." Continued on page 6

To Reno-Sparks Indian Colony residents:

The Reno-Sparks Indian Colony ("RSIC") Tribal Council is concerned about the growing number of unauthorized structures on the Colony that people are using as dwelling units on land assignments or leases.

We believe these unauthorized structures pose a serious danger to permanent Colony residents for several reasons. It’s obvious that people are using stoves and other methods to heat the structures thus creating a fire hazard for homeowners and authorized tenants in rental units.

These unauthorized structures violate several RSIC ordinances including Ordinance 51 the Land Assignment Ordinance, that authorizes only a land assignment or lease holder to have a primary residence on their land assignment or lease. In addition, many of these structures appear hazardous and unsafe for Colony residents, a violation of Ordinance 46, the Solid Waste Ordinance that was adopted to protect the health and safety of the members of the Reno-Sparks Indian and prohibits the storing, disposing, dumping, scattering, placing solid waste or hazardous waste on Colony lands.

If an unauthorized structure where people are living is located on your land assignment or lease, expect to receive personal notification that these structures must be removed as soon as possible.

At this time, this mandate does not include sheds but only unauthorized structures where people are living. If these unauthorized structures are not removed by the homeowner, the RSIC will take further action to remove them.

Sincerely,

Arlan D. Melendez
Chairman

people torn, who had to decide about going to a funeral service this morning and then come to the game," Charles said. "It's a very tremendous honor to work in that community and coach these ladies. They've worked hard. They don't talk a lot smack. They play good defense and they shoot well."

The last time Pyramid Lake won the girls basketball title was in 1981 and members of that team were on hand Saturday to watch the victory.

Charles said basketball provides a brief break from the heartache the community has gone through in recent years.

"Life goes on. It's nice to be able to take a little ease off the people for a couple hours," Charles said.

Pyramid Lake got out to a 14-1 lead after one quarter, 28-6 at halftime and 50-18 after three. When they took a 54-18 lead with 6 minutes, 20 seconds left the running clock was implemented due to the 35-plus point differential.

Lorena Eben, a freshman, led the Lakers with 14 points, Shay Barraza, junior, had 12 and Raynan Mix-Tapia, sophomore, had 10. Megan Johnson led Eureka with eight points.

The Lakers have three seniors, Deja Davis, Alizah Lara and Cayla Crutcher.

Lara said last season's loss in the title game added to their incentive.

"That made us want to play even harder and get it more and we finally did it," she said. "We worked hard all year at practice. We all had a good mentality and we wanted to win it."

"We're really excited about the future too," Charles said. "It's not just one season."

Eureka only lost two games this season, both to Pyramid Lake.

The Reno-Sparks Indian Colony is extremely proud of both the Young Men & Lady Laker Basketball Teams! Each team member, coach & staff member brought so much joy and hope to our community.

CONGRATULATIONS PYRAMID LAKE LAKERS!!!

On Behalf of Pyramid Lake High School Students, Sen. Cortez Masto Speaks to First Native American Woman in Space

By: Cortez Masto Staff

(Feb. 8, 2023—Washington, D.C.) - On behalf of Indigenous students, Cortez-Masto asks first Native American Woman in Space about trailblazing career during a live video call from International Space Station. You can view the view here: www.facebook.com/SenatorCortezMasto/videos/5228968820468657

U.S. Senator Catherine Cortez Masto (D-Nev.) spoke with NASA Astronaut Nicole Aunapu Mann, the first Native American woman in space, during a live video call from the International Space Station. Cortez Masto asked Col. Nicole Mann a question about her trailblazing career, which was submitted by students at Pyramid Lake Junior High School in Nevada.

“I’m so excited to be able to ask you this question, because this comes from Pyramid Lake Junior and Senior High School. There’s 28 tribal communities in my state, and let me just tell you, all of the students are just so excited to hear from you,” said Senator Cortez Masto at the beginning of her remarks.

On behalf of students from Reno Sparks Indian Colony and Fallon Paiute Shoshone Tribe, Cortez Masto asked, “We can only imagine the effort and determination it takes to become an astronaut—what were some obstacles that you faced being the first Native American woman to go to space and how did you overcome them?”

“There were times growing up where academically things were very challenging. At times when I felt like, maybe I’m not smart enough, maybe this class that I decided to take I overstepped what my capabilities are. And you may have a little bit of self-doubt. That’s okay,” NASA Astronaut Col. Nicole Mann responded. “That is part of growing up and that’s part of life. But again it’s about reaching out to people, surrounding yourself with people that can help you, that can give you that encouragement to pick yourself back up and then move forward.”

“These challenges will happen all throughout your life. I challenge you, really, to accept them and embrace them, and learn everything you can from them, and realize that they happen to everybody, even to astronauts on board the International Space Station,” she concluded.

A member of the Wailacki of the Round Valley Indian Tribes, Col. Mann was selected by NASA in June 2013. Last fall, she launched to the International Space Station as commander of NASA’s SpaceX Crew-5 mission aboard the SpaceX Crew Dragon spacecraft.

Recycling Program Update

There are two 6-yard recycling bins available for RSIC residents and RSIC departments. The recycling bin in Hungry Valley has been moved near the Head Start Entrance and is no longer located at the TLC building. Green Solutions Recycling picks up the materials once a week on Thursdays. Please remember to place your materials inside the container, not on the ground.

Reno Recycling Bin
The tan recycling bin is located in Anderson Park near the green garbage dumpsters.

Hungry Valley Recycling Bin (New Location)
The tan recycling bin is now located near the Head Start Entrance.

What is Recyclable Material?
Approved recyclable materials include:

- Cardboard Products
- Paper Products
- Metal Products
- Wood
- Plastic Products
- Glass Products

Food or Hazardous Materials must never be placed in the recycling bins, including food soiled paper such as paper plates, coffee filters, and paper milk cartons.

Questions? Please contact the Planning Department at 775-785-1363 or cstowell@rsic.org

Thank you for recycling!
Nevada Tribes Legislative Day was held on February 14, 2023. Nevada Tribal Leaders, Tribal Members, and native youth were in attendance on this momentous day. Nevada Tribes networked with State Leaders and discussed potential Bill Draft Requests (BDR) that can affect Nevada Tribes, such as BDR 796 for MMIW, and BDR 892 for Online Tribal ID Voter Registration, just to name a few. Leaders also discussed AB73 on graduation regalia, AB150 on Nevada System of Higher Education, AB125 MMIW Peoples’ Database, etc. Tribal leaders were invited to the Assembly and Senate floor to witness bills being passed; while the youth & tribal members witnessed from the balcony above.

Chairman Melendez was asked by the Nevada Assembly Committee on Government Affairs Chairperson, Selena Torres & the Nevada Senate Committee on Natural Resources Chairperson, Julie Pazina to do a 15-minute presentation to each committee on RSIC’s government, tribal sovereignty, concerns on mining and economic devel-
Chairman’s presentation was well received.

The Senate Natural Resources Committee also made a visit to RSIC on Feb 13th to view the “Wounded Souls Exhibit” at the Cultural Resources Building. A few of the Senate Committee members were shocked by the history of mining and tribal communities.

Additionally, RSIC UNITY Youth Council was in attendance and were able to speak directly to Nevada Senators and Assemblymen. It was experience they’ll never forget.

Thank you Nevada Indian Commission for a successful Nevada Tribes Legislative Day!

Construction Begins on Controversial Lithium Mine in Nevada

Opponents say the Thacker Pass lithium project was rushed in the name of the green transition

By: Gabriela Aoun Angueira, Journalist for Grist

(Reno, NV) - Construction began this week on an open-pit mine at the largest lithium deposit in the United States, even as tribes and environmental groups continue a years-long effort to block the project.

Lithium Americas Corp. announced that it began construction on the Thacker Pass lithium project in Humboldt County, Nevada, after the 9th Circuit Court of Appeals denied a request Wednesday by mine opponents to block work.

The Bureau of Land Management approved the $2.2 billion mine project in January 2021. Mining operations would cover 5,000 acres and create a pit deeper than a football field. Lithium is a key component in the batteries of electric vehicles.

Thacker Pass, known as Peehee Mu’hu to the Paiute Shoshone people, is 200 miles north of Reno and less than 40 miles north of the tribal land of the Fort McDermitt Paiute-Shoshone tribe. Tribes opposing the mine say the area has historical, cultural and religious importance and that it was the site of an 1865 massacre of at least 31 Paiute people.

“It’s an important place not only because a terrible massacre occurred, but also because it’s a place where people gather, it’s a place for ceremony, for hunting,” said Michon Eben, tribal historic preservation officer for the Reno Sparks Indian Colony, a government that includes members from the the Paiute, Shoshone and Washoe tribes. The colony is advocating for Peehee Mu’hu to be on the National Register of Historic Places. “It’s really hard to be a tribal member and see our homelands destroyed,” said Eben.

Thacker Pass also comprises thousands of acres of sagebrush and is a nesting ground for the sage grouse and a migration corridor for pronghorn antelope. Environmental groups including the Great Basin Resource Watch and Western Watersheds Project say the mine would cause irreversible ecological damage, and that the project’s impact was not adequately studied.

“It got by the environmental impact statement process in just under a year and I would expect a project of this scale and complexity to take 3 to 5 years,” said John Hadder, director of Great Basin Resource Watch. “That’s sloppy permitting on the side of the federal government.”

Tribes, environmental groups and a cattle rancher are all plaintiffs in a combined case against the Bureau of Land Management, or BLM, and Lithium Nevada, a subsidiary of Lithium Americas. On February 6, a federal judge in Reno ruled that the BLM had complied with federal law in approving the mine, with the exception of one matter regarding waste disposal, which the judge ordered the BLM to revisit. The plaintiffs filed an appeal in the 9th Circuit and an emergency motion to block construction before the appeal hearing. The appeals court rejected the injunction and set the hearing date for June.

The Biden administration has made the transition to electric vehicles a cornerstone of its net-zero strategy. It wants half of new car sales to be electric by 2030, and for the United States to create a domestic electric vehicle supply chain. The administration estimates that demand for lithium and graphite for electric vehicles could increase by as much as 4,000 percent by 2040.

In January, General Motors announced it would invest $650 million in Lithium Americas to develop the Thacker Pass mine, and expected the deal to yield enough lithium for 1 million electric vehicles per year.

Lithium Americas did not respond to a request for comment.
If the appeal fails and the lithium mine goes into operation, Hadder said it sets a bad precedent for how projects can be rushed in the name of the green transition.

“If it’s mining for lithium and other critical minerals, it will fall under the rubric of ‘Lithium is so important that we need to relax some of our environmental standards,’” said Hadder. “That’s a dangerous path that future generations and the environment will pay a price for. I think they’ll look back and say, ‘Oh, that wasn’t a good idea.’”

What is sacred, will always be sacred. We must always protect what is sacred. Lithium is a lie, lies are not sacred; green is a lie, that too is not sacred. Money is green, that is the biggest lie. Electric vehicles are not green. The world has been lied to.

Without water, animals & birds, insects, trees and plant life, there is no life. All living things are sacred to this world, to this universe. We must protect what is left.

Mining for lithium only destroys the world and the life, the water and air. How is that green?

WE CAN’T MINE OUR WAY OUT OF A CLIMATE CRISIS!

Chase Iron Eyes and filmmaker Chucker Banner of the Lakota People’s Law Project visit RSIC’s PeeHee Mu’Huh Defense Team to learn more about the Thacker Pass Lithium Mine Project. RSIC & LPLP traveled to PeeHee Mu’Huh to visit with People of Red Mountain Elders. UNITY also traveled to pray at the sacred site. During LPLP’s visit, Michon Eben, RSIC THPO and Bethany Sam participated in a discussion panel at the NWRA (Nevada Water Resources Association) Conference about Native American Traditions and Viewpoints on Water Issues Impacting Tribes. The “Green Rush” mining is affecting all tribes and we are working to create a unified stance. Read more at www.rsic.org.
Reno-Sparks Indian Colony Exhibit SHOWCASES Mining Industry IMPACTS on Native Peoples

"Wounded Souls: Extracting from the Land and Our Spirits" is available to tour through May 12, 2023

(Reno, NV) - Nevada has a long history as a mining state, but the impacts of extracting gold, silver, and other metals have not been equal for everyone. A new historical exhibit at the Reno-Sparks Indian Colony highlights the impacts of mining on Native people.

“What has brought wealth and job opportunities for some, has often meant the destruction of sacred sites and harm to the living culture of Native people,” says Michon R. Eben, the Tribal Historic Preservation Officer at the Reno-Sparks Indian Colony.

“This exhibit is about the wounds we have suffered and also about our resilience in the face of colonization in all its forms.”

Eben and RSIC THPO staff developed the exhibit, which opened on November 8th in celebration of Native American Heritage Month, and is titled “Wounded Souls: Extracting from the Land and Our Spirits.” It includes historic mining equipment, artefacts produced from the Comstock Lode, historical documents and information about the 1872 Mining Law, oral histories of the impacts of archeology and mining on native culture, and an exhibit on Mary and Carrie Dann’s 30-year struggle for Western Shoshone sovereignty and to protect sacred Mount Tenabo.

The Reno-Sparks Indian Colony is no stranger to the impacts of mining. The Tribe’s Hungry Valley land base was threatened by a mining operation for kitty litter in the 1990’s, but the Tribe and other Reno-area groups organized and successfully halted the project.

More recently, the Tribe has taken a stand alongside the Burns Paiute Tribe, Summit Lake Paiute Tribe, Winnemucca Indian Colony, and other allies for Thacker Pass, known as “Peehee Mu’hu” in Paiute, a sacred and culturally important site where a Canadian company plans to build an open-pit lithium mine.

Reno-Sparks Indian Colony and two other tribes, Summit Lake Paiute Tribe and Burns Paiute Tribe have filed a new lawsuit challenging the Thacker Pass Mine which includes three major allegations

First, the tribes claim that the Bureau of Land Management (BLM) withheld crucial information from the Nevada State Historic Preservation Office and lied about the extent of tribal consultation in order to secure legally-required concurrence about historic properties in Thacker Pass.

Second, the tribes allege that Lithium Nevada, with BLM’s complicity, lied about terminating a set of older permits for mining-related activities in Thacker Pass. Further, the tribes say that the BLM has, without notifying tribes or the public, expanded the scope of previous permit authorizations dozens of times, allowing Lithium Nevada to conduct preliminary mine construction activities that are harming traditional cultural properties in Thacker Pass.

In total, the lawsuit asserts that the BLM has violated the Federal Land Policy Management Act, the National Historic Preservation Act, and the National Environmental Policy Act, and is also guilty of Breach of Contract.

A section of the “Wounded Souls” exhibit is dedicated to the ongoing fight at Thacker Pass.

“Wounded Souls” was developed in collaboration with the W. M. Keck Earth Science and Mineral Engineering Museum at University of Nevada Reno, runs through May 12th, and is free to the public.

Viewing hours are Monday to Friday from 11 a.m. to 6 pm and some Saturdays from 11am to 3pm. Please call (775) 785-1326 before your visit to ensure staff will be on-site.

COVID-19 Vaccines for Adults

COVID-19 is still around and there’s no way to know how it will affect you. It’s important to get vaccinated.

COVID-19 vaccines are safe and effective, and can prevent serious illness, hospitalization, and death from COVID-19. It is recommended that all eligible adults stay up-to-date on their COVID-19 vaccines, which includes getting booster doses when eligible. The vaccines are your best protection against COVID-19.

COVID-19 Vaccines are Safe & Effective

As of July 2022, over half a billion doses of COVID-19 vaccines have been safely administered to adults, children, pregnant persons, and people with underlying health conditions in the United States. We know the COVID-19 vaccines are safe and effective because they:

- Were developed using science that’s been around for decades
- Meet standards for safety, effectiveness, and quality
- Are the most monitored in history

Common Side Effects

- Pain at injection site
- Fever / Headache
- Tiredness
- Chills
- Body aches
- Nausea / Dizziness

NOTE: Severe side effects, such as blood clots, have been reported to occur and are taken extremely seriously by healthcare officials. Talk to your healthcare provider if you have questions.

COVID-19 Vaccine for Kids

There is no way to know how COVID-19 will affect your child, even if they do not have underlying health conditions. Just like adults, children can get very sick and experience long-term complications from COVID-19. The vaccines help prevent your child from getting very sick or being hospitalized from COVID-19.

Getting your child vaccinated against COVID-19 can provide you with greater confidence for them to participate in childcare, school, and other activities.

Things to Know

- The vaccines are safe and effective.
- COVID-19 vaccines can be taken with other routine vaccines.
- Children under 12 receive a smaller dose than teens and adults.
- Children who had COVID-19 should still get vaccinated.

Common Side Effects

- Pain at injection site
- Fever / Headache
- Tiredness
- Chills
- Body aches
- Nausea / Dizziness
